

We aim to understand the molecular decision making processes that triages newly synthesized proteins to their correct fates in the cell.