

We study the fundamental metabolic adaptations of the malaria parasite, Plasmodium falciparum, that have driven the evolution of this pathogen for specialized survival and growth within humans and mosquitoes.